RANGERS MAKE AN IMPORTANT Capture Near the Mex- ican Boundary.

Dunham, the Notorious California
Murderer, Arrested—Eluded Officers Eight Years.

James C. Dunham, the author of one of the bloodiest crimes of the last century, involving the murder of his wife and all the members of her family, has been arrested after a chase of eight years. The capture was made by the Arizona rangers on Tuesday evening, August 30, and was the most important work ever accomplished by this organization, which has done some very effective work. The story of the capture was told in the Phoenix Republican last week as follows:

"On Tuesday evening Lieutenant Brooks, of the Arizona rangers with two rangers went to a silica mine in the mountains south of Bisbee to arrest Charles Douglas on information from the foreman and superintendent of the mine and from a description of the fugitive in their possession.

Douglas had evidently lost his gun as his pockets were full of 44 cartridges and he had been trying for several days to borrow a gun. The two officers threw down on him and the other attempted to handcuff him. He had a handle sawed from a shovel and made a desperate fight almost breaking the arm of one ranger. Lieutenant Brooks fired at his right arm and hit him in the breast but it did not stop him. Ranger Stanford fired at his head creasing him. He was stunned, secured and taken to Naco. His wounds were not serious.

During the night he called for the foreman and in the presence of officers confessed that he was Dunham and gave an account of the murder of his family near San Jose, Cal. He says that since then he has served three years in Yuma and received a sentence of six years in Santa Fe, but escaped from a tie camp after six months. He begged the rangers to return him to New Mexico and not to California.

He has been identified by two San Jose men and he fits the description of Dunham. He has tried to commit suicide twice since his capture. He is closely guarded pending further identification and the action of the California officials.

The crime for which Dunham has been sought was the murder of his wife, her mother, her stepfather, Col. R. P. McGlinchey, her brother, James K. Wells, a servant girl, Minnie Shessler, and a farm hand, Robert Brisco. The murder took place on the night of May 26, 1896, at the farm house of Col. McGlinchey, between San Jose and Mayfield, and near the latter place, in Santa Clara county, Cal.

The slaughter was carefully planned. When it was begun there was nobody at home but the three women. Dunham went to his wife in the night and having told her that he was going to kill her, gave her a chance to write a message to those who she was led to believe would be spared. Then he strangled her to death. The second victim was the girl, Minnie Shessler, whose skull was cleft with an ax. The fate of Mrs. McGlinchey was the same.

Then the murderer sat in the bloody house and awaited the return of the men. Col. McGlinchey came first. As he opened the door he was met by a bullet. He turned to run and his stepson, Wells, rushed to his assistance. Wells was shot through the heart and the murderer, leaping over his body, pursued his aged victim, who had succeeded in reaching a cabin occupied by Brisco. There Dunham put the old man out of his misery and also killed Brisco. There were only two persons left alive on the ranch. One was the murderer and the other his two year old baby boy.

There was no witness of the tragedy and the foregoing somewhat circumstantial story of it is made up from the circumstances which the first horrified investigators of the tragedy discovered.

The motive was not plain. It was not known that Dunham had had any trouble with his wife or her relatives and it was assumed that he had intended to kill them all, leaving his boy the sole heir of the estate of Col. McGlinchey.

Pursuit was begun at once. It was only known that the murderer had taken refuge in the Sierras. He was never afterwards seen in that part of the country and all the possible outlets having been carefully guarded it was at length believed that he had committed suicide or had otherwise died in the mountains. Rewards aggregating $11,000 had been offered and the search was stimulated. Reports of his appearance came from all parts of the country. Many of them were investigated at first and were found to be without foundation. Finally active search for him was abandoned.

About a year after the tragedy it was reported that he had been seen at Yuma. He was next heard of at Hermosillo. The news of his appearance there was brought to Nogales by a Chinaman who had known him in California. When they met their recognition was mutual. They had a conversation in the course of which the Chinaman said that Dunham made an appointment to meet him that night. The Chinaman did not keep it, believing that he would share the fate of the McGlinchey family. He did not inform the authorities at Hermosillo but took the first train for Nogales where he first made known whom he had seen. The story of his presence in that part of the country was corroborated by other persons who claimed to have recognized him and a great many have since believed that he found refuge in the wilds of the Sierra Madres.

Dunham was thirty-two years old at the time of the commission of this awful crime. His reputation had been good.

Arizona Game Laws.

At this time of year the Arizona game law is always interesting to a great many people and it is briefly given below, the open season being as follows.

Wild Turkeys.—September 15 to November 1.

Quail, bob white, partridge, pheasant, snipe, rail or grouse, October 15 to March 1.

Doves.—The entire year.

Male Deer.—September 15 to November, each person being limited to only one deer a day and to three during any one season.

Camel elk, mountain goat, female deer, mountain sheep or spotted fawn, prohibited from killing any time during the year.

Antelope, prohibited from killing at any time.

Mountain, or rainbow trout, June 1 to September 1.

No gun larger than 10 gauge allowed to be used on game birds.

No one allowed to net, snare, trap or impound any game birds.

A Farewell Party.

Miss Mary Frank Gardner, one of the enthusiastic members of the eighth grade Adelphean Society, organized in the eighth grade of the Prescott public schools last year, with Miss Lee as teacher, gave a farewell party to the girls of the society on Friday afternoon at the home of her parents on the corner of Mt. Vernon and Cortez streets. The house was very artistically decorated in red and white ribbons and with sweet peas, red and white being the society's colors. Progressive cards were played, Miss Florence Agard capturing the first prize and Miss Florence Herndon the second prize. Miss Florence Brett received the first consolation prize and Miss June Williams the second. After the games were ended the doors of the dining room were swung open and elegant refreshments were served, the table being decorated with a big red and white cake with E. G. A., the initials of the society in the middle of it, and red and white ribbons from above the middle of the table were stretched to each corner of the room.

Those present were Florence Herndon, Hazel Martin, Dorothy Drake, Florence Brett, Grace Grey, Louise Draper, Jennie Dags, Lyma Wilder, Florence Agard, June Williams, Anna Ford and Mary Frank Gardner.

It was a very pleasant finale and farewell to an organization which has furnished many pleasant hours to its members, and the hostess proved herself an adept in entertaining. The young ladies have all entered the high school this year.
